

Dialogue between Exegesis and Theology Series

The “Dialogue between Exegesis and Theology” Series promotes an integrated theological reflection in which biblical exegesis and systematic, historical, and practical theology engage in a dynamic and fruitful dialogue. Grounded in the conviction that theology is an essential function of the Church, the series seeks to overcome disciplinary fragmentation and to recover the unity of theological reflection. Addressed to those involved in the service of the Kingdom of God—within the Church, the academic environment, and society—the series aims to contribute to the formation of a profound and coherent theological way of thinking, capable of supporting authentic living and a relevant witness in the contemporary world.
