

Lecture Series – The Master Lecture

The Lecture Series brings together the texts of the “Ars Theologica” Lectures, delivered by invited theologians and researchers recognized for their contributions to the field. These academic interventions provide synthetic and innovative perspectives on major themes and reflect the dialogue between theological traditions, cultural contexts, and diverse methodological approaches. The publication of these lectures ensures the continuity of their scientific impact and offers the academic community access to high-level reflections situated at the intersection of advanced research and public debate.
